Nurse. A Paris letter-writer says:

A Paris letter-writer says:

It certainly sounds rather odd to hear of a man being incarcerated in a debtor's prison, for non-payment of the wages of his own nurse; but there is such an example, at this moment, among the poor fellows in the Paris sponging-house —— Cliehy.

The story of this affair is curious, and might be turned by a clever novelist, to more amusing account, than even Alfred Jingle, Esq., one of the most satirical portraits of Dickens's "Pickwick Club." This prisoner was born a short time before the traits of Dickens's "Pickwick Club." This prisoner was born a short time before the Reign of Terror. His parents sent him to the country, to be reared by a peasant woman, the price agreed upon for her services being twenty-five francs a month. Soon after the Guillotine began operations in Paris, the infant's parents became its victims, and the nurse no longer received her wages.

The good creature supported the child The good creature supported the child during eighteen months, when a cousin of the dilapidated father relieved the woman of her charge without, however, paying the 450 francs due. When the child reached the age of manhood, though still unable to pay his nurse, he gratefully acknowledged the debt, and gave his note for the sum. Unable to meet it at maturity, the note was renewed from wear to was, the interest convent. newed, from year to year, the interest con-stantly accumulating, until, at the peasant's death, a few months ago, the amount had

During the foster-mother's life, the poor fellow had no difficulty in carrying this load of indebtedness, growing all the time like a snow-ball; but, at her death, it fell into the possession of less considerate persons; and, forming the main prize of a slender heritage, it was determined that the note, now a venerable bit of parchment, but still bearing the acknowledgement, must be paid. The debtor could not pay it, and was forthwith sent to Clichy, where, at seventy years of age, he is left to reflect upon the dangers of ac-knowledging early lacteal nourishment, at compound interest

Clerical Lecker in Illinois.
The Saugerties (N. Y.) Telegraph says: The Saugerties (N. Y.) Telegraph says:
Rev. Joseph R. Johnson, formerly of that village, is at his old tricks out in Illinois.
The editor received a letter a few days since from an attorney at law in Loda, requesting a copy of the Telegraph which contained a report of his trial at Kingston, for the murder of his first wife, and the editorial remarks on the result of that trial. The attorney, Uriah Copp. jr., says that a year ago last spring, Johnson and wife came there, and he engaged and taught the village school, much engaged and taught the village school, much to the satisfaction of the people. They knew nothing of his previous history. In the lat-ter part of the summer, the village minister became sick and could not preach all the time. Johnson informed the minister and people that he was a clergyman, and volun-teered his services to assist, which were ac-cepted, and he preached part of the time during the fall and winter, up to last April.

Then reports began to circulate that he was too intimate with certain young ladies. At first it was not believed, but soon his friends were obliged to acknowledge that it was but too true. On this coming out, he left the place clandestinely, and now his wife, for whom Mr. Copp is attorney, saes for a divorce, and declares that she will never live with him again. They had been separated before on account of his partiality for other ladies, but he made such good promises that she consented to live with him at Loda. She lately told her attorney concerning his trial for the murder of his first wife, which prompted him to write to the editor of the Telegraph immediately. He says: "It seems to me, if the facts she has related be true, he would not the arch traiter Salan to shape." would put the arch-traitor Satan to shame

ESTABLISHMENT AND PROSPERITY OF THE DEMI-MONDE IN PARIS.—A Paris correspondent writes in a late letter: "At every step, ent writes in a late letter: "At every step, in the streets, on the fashionable promenades of the metropolis, occupying nightly the most conspicuous places at the theater, society is perforce brought face to face with the originals of the hundred brazen portraits displayed in the picture shop windows, or the important personages described in the pages of volumes spread out upon the counters of our booksellers.

"It is a remerable fact in French others ers of our booksetlers.

"It is a remarkable fact in French ethics, that the more political liberty is restricted, in France, the wider is the measure of social freedom accorded to the people—perhaps considered by government in the light of an indemnity. And to attack with indemnity. And, to attack, with vigor, a loose state of morals, is not an easy task, among people who heartily detest hypocrisy, cant and prudery, and are prone to tarn professions of morality into ridicule. In France, the "I am better than thou" system, is exceedingly difficult to put into practice.

"To-day, the demi-monde is founded, and has a recognized existence. It has its manners, customs, sayings and institutions. It was to be expected that it would have a literature, also. Respectable society can only hope that also. Respectable society can only hope that all this will one day disappear; but that expectation will certainly never be reached by persecution. Either the strong hand of government must lay the knife to the sore or it must be left to mortify, and, of itself, drop the body politic."

THE MODE OF CAPTURE OF THE LONDON The Mode of Capture of the London Times's Corespondent, "In capture of the London Times's correspondent, and five other Englishmen, by the Chinese, appears to have been effected by deliberate acts of treachery, which had in view the seizure of the English and French Embassadors, and the surprisal of the whole army. It had been settled that the Chinese were to fall back and a small advance party under Col. back, and a small advance party under Col. Walker were sent forward to Tung-Chan to Walker were sent forward to Tung-Chan to arrange for Lord Elgin's reception, and mark out a camp for the Allies. They observed nothing particular on the road, but it appears that, during the night, about 20,000 Chinese troops moved down and occupied the ground previously marked out by Col. Walker for the Allied camp. Nothing remained but to out their way through the army. This they did gallantly, but the captured party had left their quarters—in search of information, probably—and so were easily overpowered by their treacherous enemies.

A BEWITCHED SPINNING FACTORY IN FRANCE.—The Salut Public, of Lyons, France, recounts the various annoyances to which the inmates of a spinning factory in that city were subjected by some invisible and inexplicable agency. First, during a fortnight every portion of the spinning machines in the factory took to dancing about the place, making the most frightful clatter. A print was one day found stuck upon the door, and resisted every effort to remove it. Next day, this print disappeared. All the magnetizers and several priests have visited the factory, and endeavored to exercise the the factory, and endeavored to exercise the troublesome "spirit," but hitherto without effect. The establishment is in confusion, and the master, in despair, thinks of evac-uating the premises. The police have been unable to discover any cause for the disorder.

CULTIVATION OF LIQUORICE IN TEXAS. The San Antonio (Texas) Ledger says that a Mr. Poinsard, of that city, has been eminently successful in the culture and acclimanently successful in the culture and acclimation of liquorice root, which he had inported from France. Of all the plants imported, one alone survived. So luxuriant was its growth that it radiated, not withstanding the drouth, covering the ground for a circumference of fifteen feet, proving that irrigation is not necessary to its successful growth. Indeed so successful has Mr. Poinsard been, both in relation to its acclimation and culture, that he looks forward to the

An Old Man Imprisoned for a Debt Due his Burteaque Washington Disputches. Vanity Fair has the following telegrams, burlesquing the leading New York Dailies:

SPECIAL WOTIDES.

I'm the Style of the Herald. Washington, December ——The excitement rages terrifically. A financial crisis has paralysed all business. A private session of the Cabinet was held last night, when trouble arose between Mr. Buchanao and the Secretary of the Interior. High words were exchanged, but they did not come to blows. I am not permitted to divulge the reason why they did not. This new you may rely upon, as I have it from the highest authority. It has been disclosed to no one cise.

LATER. The absurd rumor that appeared in some of the papers, this morning, concerning a difficulty in the Cabinet last night, is totally without foundation. I have this denial from the very best source.

II. Washington, December ——There is no excitement whatever here. Mr. Buchanan will probably resign in favor of Mr. Lincoln, within a few days. The Southern delegates are all enthusiastic Union men, and some of them hold strong Republican principles. One hears nothing of secession any where. Business was never more prosperous. One of the Senators from South Carolina will shortly introduce a bill for the better enforcement of the personal-liberty bills in the North.

LATER. The excitement is rapidly decreasing.

IIn the Style of the Times. WASHINGTON, December — Unless some thing happens immediately, it will be some time before any thing occurs. The tone of the South is not very favorable to Abolitionism, and if South Carolina successfully seccees, nothing can prevent her going out of the Union. Trouble in the Cabinet was reported last night, but unless supported by acts, the rumor can have little foundation. The excitement bere, in political circles, is not so great as it was before it began to subside, but is still greater than before it reached its present hight.

LATER, If there is no difficulty, all will be well. The Extent and Ramifications of Washington Hotels. A writer in the Atlantic Monthly says of the caravanseras in the Federal City: Seeing the multitude of boarding-houses, oyster-cellars, and ivory-banks, you may suppose there are no hotels in Washington. You are mistaken. There are plenty of hotels, many of them got up on the scale of magnificent distances that prevails every where, and somewhat on the maritime plan of the departments. Outwardly, they look like colossal docks, erected for the benefit of hacks, large fleets of which you will find always made and their contents. ored under their lee, safe from the ways mo monson that prevails on the open sea of the Avenue. Inwardly, they are labyrinths, through whose gloomy mazes it is impossible to thread your way without the assistance of an Ariadne's clue in the shape of an Irishman panting under a trunk. So obscure and involved are the hotel-in-teriors, that it would be madness for a stranger to venture in search of his room without the guidance of some one far more familiar with the devious course of the narrow clearings through the forest of spart-ments than the landlord himself. Now and then a reckless and adventurous proprietor undertakes to make a day's journey alone through his establishment. He is never heard of afterward,—or; if found, is disovered in a remote angle or loft, in a state insensibility from bewilderment and starvation.

If it were not for an occasional negro, who, instigated by charitable motives or love of money, slouches about from room to room with an empty coal-scuttle as an exuse for his intrusions, a gentleman stopping at a Washington hotel would be doomed, to cer-tain death. In fact, the lives of all the guests bang upon a thread, or rather, a wire; for, if the bell should fail to answer, there would e no earthly chance of getting into dayligh again. It is but reasonable to suppose that the wires to many rooms have been broken in times past, and it is well known in Washington that these rooms are now tenanted by skeletons of hapless travelers whose rela-tives and friends never doubted that they had been kidnapped or had gone down in

THREE NEGROES EXECUTED IN DELAWARE, On Friday last three negroes—Levi Jenkins, aged thirty-five, under sentence of death for aged thirty-live, under sentence of death for rape upon a negro girl; John Channon, aged eighteen, under similar sentence for the murder of a lovely white girl of fourteen summers, and a colored woman, of eighteen years, for the murder of an innocent babe, of fourteen months—suffered the penalty of the law at Georgetown, Delaware. In the presence of about sixty persons, comprising the [Sheriff's jury, military guards, physi-cians, &c., in the jail-yard, and hundreds without, crowding the trees, walls and roof-tops, at precisely one o'clock the drop fell, and all three were lanched into eternity, two of them dring in one minute, and the third of them dying in one minute, and the third only showing some muscular contractions for about ten minutes. The Rev. Mr. Hough accompanied them to the scaffold and offsred up a prayer. This gentleman had pre-viously visited them in their cells. Two of them seemed a good deal concerned, while the murderer of the girl was apparently careless and indifferent. Neither of them had any thing to say. "FLORA TEMPLE'S" PEDIGHEE.—The cele-brated American mare, "Flora Temple," which has excited the admiration of the French turf by the way in which she tool the honors of the recent trotting match a the honors of the recent trotting match at the Bois de Boulogne, is said by an American gentleman, Mr. D., well-known in the sporting world, to be descended from a young horse of the Norman breed, bought forty-five years ago by a person of the name of Morgan, who took it to America. According to Mr. D., it is from this horse, which was a very handsome animal and of great speed, that all the best trotters in the United States are descended. So, highly are the trotters are descended. So highly are the trotters of the Morgan breed, as it is called, esteemed, that every colt fetches 1,000 francs more than any other breed.

San Story of La Favoaira at Home.— At Orleans Flat, N. Y., s short time since, a woman, once beautiful and fascinating, but sinful, died in a miserable but in silence and alone, no one near to cool her parched lips alone, no one near to cool her parched fips with a drop of water, or whisper one word of consolation in her desfening ear. She was known as Clara, and by no other name. She came to Orleans Flut a week before her death, and hired a scanty lodging-place, he which she lived, unvisited and unchaered by any human being. There, in the rude hovel, alone with death, was her body found. Charity buried it.

PROSPROVIVE REVELATIONS FROM LAMORI-GRADE — General Lamoriciere has returned for a while to his estate in the Department of Maine et Doire, in France. Rumor says he is busily preparing a pamphiet, to be en-titled, "God is Judge," and to give full ex-planations of all his exploits in Italy. Gu-rious revelations about Geyon and Gram-mont will be made in this breckers. CACUANIAN GRATHTON CANARD TO Ex-ranged—A good-looking German girl named Kles Kroster, recently attempted to drown harpelf at Newark, N. J., but was rescued by a colored man. The Secession Movement Toombe's Address and Advocacy of Secusion-Hon. Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, Burned in Effigy-The Secession Feeling in Virginia Increasing-Disposition of the South Carolina Mails.

[New York Times Correspondence.] Washington, December 26.—The Senate Committee of Thirteen will report to-mor-row, when Senator Toombe will speak in denunciation of the Republican party, and will repudiate any further effort at reconciliation.

Mr. Toombs telegraphs this evening the following address to the people of Georgia:

"I came here to secure your constitutional rights, and to demonstrate to you that you rights, and to demonstrate to you that you can get no guarantee for those rights from your Northern confederates.

"The whole subject was referred to a committee of thirteen in the Senate. I was appointed on the committee, and accepted the trust. I submitted propositions, which, so far from receiving a decided support from a single member of the Republican party of single member of the Republican party of the committee, were all treated with de-rision or contempt. A vote was then taken in the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, proposed by Hon, J. J. Crit-tenden, and each and all of them were voted capital manipularly by the Black Parallel against unanimously by the Black Repub-lican members of the committee. "In addition to these facts, a majority of the Black Republican members of the Com-the Black Republican members of the Committee declared distinctly that they had no guaranties to offer, which was silently acquiesced in by the other members.

"The Black Republican members of this committee are representative men of the party and section, and, to the extent of my formation, truly represent them.

"The Committee of Thirty-three, on Friday, adjourned for a week, without coming to any vote, after solemnly pledging them-selves to vote on all the propositions then selves to vote on all the propositions then before them, that day.

"It is controlled by the Black Republicans, your enemies, who only seek to amuse you with delusive hope until your election, that you may defeat the friends of secession.

"If you are deceived by them, it shall not be my fault. I have put the test fairly and frankly. It is decisive against you now. I tell you, upon the faith of a true man, that all further looking to the North for security for your constitutional rights in the Union, ought to be instantly abandoned.

"It is fraught with nothing but ruin to yourselves and to your posterity. Secession, by the 4th of March next, should be thundered from the ballot-box by the unanimous
